An Occasional Man is a male pin-up magazine started by pin-up girls who love handsome men, but couldn't find a mag that featured the classy ass we love to oogle, so we started our own! We're all touring burlesque performers, and as we shimmy and shake across the planet, we keep an eye out for the hottest man candy out there, and bring photographic proof to hip kids around the world in a quarterly, purse-sized full-colour magazine. Each issue also features interviews with our favourite bands and artists, plus sassy columns. It's a tough job, but someone has to do it! We are sold online and in retail stores in Canada, the USA and France, as well as events around the world according to our performance schedules. Our subscribers are all over the world, with the majority being women in the USA.
